

Associated California Loggers Conference

The Associated California Loggers conference in Reno consisted of a range of presentations and discussions amongst industry leaders in the forest sector. The keynote address, delivered by Congressman McClintock, emphasized the importance of the industry in reaching our forest management goals, helping rebuild California forests to be resilient and healthy, and reducing the threat of catastrophic wildfires.

As an event sponsor, Yosemite Clean Energy had the opportunity to introduce many attendees to our biomass gasification process and key projects in California, outlining our sustainable, market-oriented approach to producing renewable hydrogen and reducing wildfire risk. Bioenergy was a core topic of discussion, as it creates the opportunity for the industry to diversify whilst simultaneously supporting the clean energy transition. Other crucial topics discussed included workforce development, improving logging sector economic drivers, and changes to national and state programs that can support the forest industry. Yosemite Clean Energy is proud to support and participate in educational events like these, and will continue to promote sustainable forestry management practices nationally.
